Abstract

- Double spaced
- Add line # in side margin of first submission (for easier revision/edit localization)
- Look at articles already in the journal for formatting style

Body of Manuscript

- Start on separate page from abstract
- Introduction
 - Use introduction sentences from abstract as paragraph topics
- Materials & Methods
- Results
 - No interpretation
 - No figures/Tables
- Discussion
- Conclusion

For first submission, it is suggested that lines are numbered in the margin for easier localization of revisions/edits

References

- Start on new page
- Look at information for authors on journal submission page for their preferred citation style
- Look at articles in the journal for citation style

Figures

- Start on new page
- May be a graph, medical imaging, photo, etc.
- Title each figure below it with Figure 1, Figure 2, etc. based on the requirements of the journal/articles already published in the journal
- Include a 1-2 sentence legend describing the figure

Example:

Tables

- Start on new page
- Title each table above it with Table 1, Table 2, etc. based on the requirements of the journal/other articles already published in the journal
- Include a 1-2 sentence legend describing the table

Example: Table 1. This table shows...

For Case Presentation Articles

- Replace Materials & Methods with the case report
- Results: could include lab results, imaging results, etc. if applicable
- Discussion:

Example:

- 1st paragraph- general review of typical presentation
- 2nd paragraph- general review of epidemiology
- 3rd paragraph- description of existing cases
- 4th paragraph- in conclusion, our manuscript documents the first ever...

Revisions

- For revisions, write a new cover letter.

Example:

To the editor:

Thank you so much for allowing us to get a revision. Below is a point by point rebuttal/correction to the comments of reviewers.

- Then, cut and paste reviewers' input in the letter and respond to each element. Use the margin line numbers to help localize the revision. It may also help to highlight the change in the text as well

Example:

Reviewer 1: (copy and pasted text from his/her review)

We so appreciate the reviewer's careful review of the manuscript. We agree with the comment. We've done... on page... line...
